THE RIVERS RECEDING.

All Danger from the Recent Floods is Over-Business Beginning Again-

Ortawa, Ili., May 11.—The Illinois and Fox rivers entered their banks again Monday, and since all manufacturing institusumed operations. The vacated homes are re-entered and habitations re-established.

The worst feature of the inundation is the large quantities of refuse left on the overshowed lands, while a large deposit of quicks and and enough soft plastic substance is found at intervals to brand it assediment from the Chicago sewage. Those inclined to sensationalism prophesy an repldentic. This view is not sustained by the general public, the almost universal opinion being that there is absolutely no cause for alarm. The rains of the past forty-eight hours have not perceptibly in-creased the volume of water and all fears of further departation are allegated. of further devastation are allenced.

Mr. C. T. Wilson, one of the new artists of Salt Lake, is just completing a picture which has for its title the susically practical name—The Origin of the Harp. It is based on a fairy story of the maiden who was turned to a fish by a witch and changed by a raven to her original form. The artist has selected the moment when the sid discarding the skin of the fish and just stepping on the bank of the pool, lined with likes and reeds. The raven is swooping down to recover the fish skin in order to warf off the charm of the witch. The maiden is of the blonde type, with form exquisitiely beautiful. The color of the hair is most delicate, and the face charming. is most delicate, and the face charming. The prismatic colors reflected from the scales of the fish skin heighten the effect very much. Will Enable Any Citizen in America to Secure the Best Encyclopædia, namely, the Americanized Encyclopædia Britannica.

Three things ought to find a place in every American home: The Sacred Scriptures, a good newspaper and a thoroughly reliable encyclopædia. The first we are quite sure every family in which our paper is taken already enjoys; the second it has been the business of our lives to furnish; the third we place at the disposal of our readers from this moment. Eight cents a day for eight months will hereafter enable any citizen to secura a complete set of the Americanized Encyclopædia Britannica, which, after a careful examination, we confidently believe to be the most complete, reliable and altogether the best work of its kind extant to-day. This is another illustration of the motto that lies at the base of America can institutions: In union there is strength. We have simply organized our readers into a club of enerclopmdia buyers, and obtained from the publishers the concessions which so large an organization has the legitimate right to demand. Our reward will come in an increased circulation, which, again, will probably enable us to secure similar advantages for our subscribers in some other direction. This is as it should be; the publishers and readers of a great newspaper should work together for mutual ad-

What the publishers have done is to take the Encyclopædia Britannica to pieces and rebuild it with amendments and improvements. The latest or ninth edition of the original work was compiled some fifteen years ago; the American editors have revised it to the present year. The original work was crowded with minute and exhaustive descriptions of English towns, cities, counties, boroughs, minor institutions and other matters of peculiar interest to Englishmen. and to Englishmen alon, while American subjects were treated with the same brevity as French or German. The American editors have reversed this method-condenses the articles on distinctively British subjects within reasonable limits, and utilized the space thus gained for exhaustive discussions of purely American topics. The original work excluded from its plan all mention of individuals, however famous, who were alive at the time of its compilation; it says not a word of more than half the men whose names are written on the pages of godern history-no word of Grant or Sheridan or Sherman, Harriet Beecher Stowe, Julia Ward Howe or Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, of Cleveland, Harrison or Blaine, or Parnell, Salisbury or Bismarck. This woful lapsus, too, has been supplied in the Americanized edition. A series of 4,000 biographies, each brought down to the present year, enables the reader to learn at a glance the life story of every noted individual of the present generation. To all this add a complete series of maps and a number of well-executed engravings illustrative of the text, and the Americanized Encyclopædia Britannics is before you-a work in whose introduction to our readers we feel a not unwarrantable pride. The sol a not unwarrantable owde.
